

Funding for child-care supervision

Assumption of the parental contributions in day-care facilities

The participation fee for child day-care facilities such as day nurseries, playschools or crèches can be completely or partially assumed within the scope of the Youth Welfare service if the financial strain on the parents / parent and the child is unreasonable. The assumption of costs is dependent on an application and on the respective income. The assumption of the fee can take place from the start of the month of application. Therefore, the application should arrive at the Children, Youth and Family Specialist Division of the Youth Welfare Office at the latest during the month from which your child attends the facility.

Those drawing unemployment benefits II (SGB (Social Code) II) and aid in accordance with SGB XII as well as asylum seekers currently do not pay a supervision fee subject to submission of the appropriate assessments.
